

Morgan State University Institute for Urban
Research
Robert Hill Lecture Series

*Beyond Obama:
Voting the Census and OUR Future*

Jared A. Ball, Ph.D.

Assistant Professor, Communication Studies, Morgan
State University

Professor Ball's presentation will cover the basics of census politics and the context in which the census must be put. It is to be argued that this context does, in fact, center around Black history, contemporary reality and relationship to the broader United States. The presentation will further argue that American capitalism and its maintenance of relationships of colonialism to populations therein contained is ultimately what is at issue. Professor Ball is a member of the DC Statehood/Green Party and in 2007 announced his candidacy for the Green Party's presidential nomination. Professor Ball is an independent journalist, a radio host with WPFW 89.3 FM for Pacifica Radio Washington, DC and founder of FreeMix Radio: The Original Mixtape Radio Show - a freely distributed monthly hip-hop mixtape dedicated to the practice of emancipatory journalism.

Thursday, November 5th, 11:00 a.m.

New Student Center, Room 212A
Morgan State University

For additional information, contact Dr. Ray Winbush at (443) 885-4800.